

EnduRoMania: for a future of responsible trail riding

Since 1995, the EnduRoMania Foundation has been working to preserve Romania's stunning landscape while promoting access to and exploration of these areas, particularly for trail riding enthusiasts. Romania's extensive network of unpaved, non-modernized roads offers some of the best off-road terrain in Europe. Unlike many Western European countries, where such trails have become rare, the Romanian countryside remains a haven for off-road enthusiasts.

We are committed to upholding the right of motorcyclists to ride these historic country lanes, while promoting sustainable practices to protect the trails. This not only benefits riders, but also hikers, cyclists and horse riders, as we promote mutual respect on the shared trails.

What makes Romania unique for trail riding

Perhaps the most fascinating element of trail riding in Romania is the abundance of dirt roads. While the dirt road network in countries like the UK only makes up 2% of public roads, Romania offers thousands of kilometers of roads for unhindered off-roading. These unique conditions allow motorcyclists to experience the breathtaking landscapes and rural culture of Romania without many restrictions, making the country one of the top trail riding destinations in Europe.

Our vision

Our vision is to protect and preserve Romania's network of dirt roads as a national heritage, so that it will be available for responsible trail riding for generations to come. We want this activity to be recognized as a respected and valued leisure activity.

Our mission

EnduRoMania strives to become the leading organization for sustainable trail riding in Romania by promoting responsible motorcycling and preserving the natural and cultural heritage of Romania.

Health benefits of trail riding

Trail riding promotes both physical and mental health, supporting government initiatives to encourage outdoor activities. By exploring Romania's diverse landscapes, trail riders benefit from an active lifestyle that improves fitness and mental well-being. Many report lower stress levels, better physical fitness and a deeper connection to nature through their experiences on the trails.

Supporting local communities

Through sustainable tourism and working with local communities, EnduRoMania contributes to economic development in rural areas. Our events attract enthusiasts from across Europe, boosting the local economy, promoting tourism and supporting the protection of Romania's unique landscapes.
